President Charts Course Of Middlebury's Future

President James Armstrong in talks at five alumni dinners last spring outlined the future of Middlebury College under his administration. The text printed below contains the substance of his remarks as they appeared in the Summer edition of the ALUMNI NEWS LETTER.

"When I came to Middlebury, I came because of a vision — a vision of helping the College to stand taller among the first-rate coeducational liberal arts colleges of this country and to confront the challenge of survival which all small colleges face. I believed then, and I believe more strongly now, that we have the ingredients necessary for survival, but we must begin immediately to gain new energy and dispose that energy with courage.

As I said at Homecoming, my plan has been to look and listen this year, but in spite of this policy things have been moving at quite a pace. I've had to be awake at Middlebury this year trying to learn the metabolism and prepare for the moves which must come.

I have talked about survival — I do not use this word lightly — for I have felt from the outset that the small independent liberal arts college must stand up and be counted or it will be squeezed out of existence. I have no desire nor plan to change the ethos of Middlebury College. My hope is that the College will become more and more fully what it has always aspired to be.

And this is going to take long-range planning. We want to create some of our choices, not simply be confronted by alternatives; we want to act rather

Neuberger Now Admissions Dean Of Men, Women

President Armstrong announced Tuesday that Fred F. Neuberger will become director of admissions for the college. The appointment was effective immediately.

Neuberger, formerly director of admissions for men, joined the college's administrative staff in 1955 as assistant dean of men. His new post will include responsibility for those duties formerly administered by Miss Barbara A. Wells.

FRED NEUBERGER

Miss Wells resigned this week as director of admissions for women and accepted the new position of executive secretary for the Ford Challenge Program at Middlebury.

"Mr. Neuberger has had an excellent apprenticeship for the new responsibility which he has agreed to accept," Dr. Armstrong said Monday. "As director of admissions for men he has shown a fine capacity for grappling with the complexities of admissions work, and I am greatly pleased that he has accepted the demanding position of director of admissions."

A native of Pittsfield, Mass., Mr. Neuberger graduated from Middlebury in 1950. From 1958-61 he was dean of freshman men at the College. Before joining the Middlebury staff he was assistant director of admissions at RPI.

ATO Will Break Ties With Nat'l

The Middlebury Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity unanimously voted last week to initiate procedures to withdraw from the national fraternity because of restrictive membership requirements. The chapter plans to reorganize as a local fraternity. This action, according to Acting Dean of Men Frederic W. Swift, will receive the full support of the college.

The action stems from unsuccessful appeals over a number of years by the Middlebury group to the national organization to change its position in regard to membership.

Peter G. Glenn, president of the Middlebury ATO chapter, said today that the group had long been concerned with these restrictions.

"In August, a delegation from Middlebury attended the National ATO Congress and again made its position clear," Glenn said. "However the congress made it quite clear that the national fraternity does not wish to accept non-whites and non-Christians. We feel that this stand is inconsistent with our beliefs and our conscience. We have therefore initiated procedures to remove ourselves from the national fraternity."

FREDERIC W. SWIFT

Swift Acting Dean of Men

Faculty member Frederic W. Swift has been named acting dean of men, Middlebury President James I. Armstrong announced recently.

Swift, a lecturer in psychology at Middlebury since 1956, succeeds Dr. Thomas H. Reynolds, now dean of the College.

Swift was graduated from Harvard University in 1932 with an A.B. degree. He also holds a master's degree in psychology from Harvard as well as an M.A. degree in educational sociology from New York University.

Before joining the Middlebury faculty he was for four years associate professor of psychology at Washington and Jefferson College.

'Challenge' Grant Must Be Matched Two For One

A $1.7 million Ford Foundation Challenge grant, largest foundation award in Middlebury's history was announced June 25 by President James Armstrong.

Middlebury must raise $3.4 million by July of 1967 to meet the terms of Ford's special program in education.

Ford grants of over $5,000,000 in matching funds went to five colleges, including Middlebury, last June. The same special program grants have gone to 42 other institutions in the past.

President Armstrong said of the grant, "Here is the catalyst to new energy; here is the portent of things to come . . . With this new stimulus to action we will dispose our energy with courage."

All college gifts received since July 1 will be used to match the Ford grant. The Foundation will not give the money in one payment but in "blocks" of a certain amount according to a pre-arranged timetable.

"With this award," commented the President, "we must now strive to broaden the base of our gift support. A three-year multi-million dollar capital campaign now under study will be announced in the fall as the first phase of a ten-year capital program to terminate on Middlebury's 175th anniversary."

Priority items include substantial additions to the College's endowment — "to bridge the gap between income and cost," Dr. Armstrong stated in the summer issue of the Alumni News Letter.

Main areas demanding growth in endowment, according to Dr. Armstrong are faculty salaries, student scholarship funds, faculty leaves of absences, faculty research, and library acquisitions.

Two major academic buildings, a Science Center and a Music-Fine Arts Center are also needed, he pointed out.

A third major facility, the Edwin S. S. Sunderland Language Center has already been begun under a March grant by the Charles A. Dana Foundation. At that time Middlebury received a challenge grant of $300,000. An additional $500,000 must be raised to match the Dana funds.

94 Students Make Dean's List; 28 Fail Out, 43 on Probation

The academic standings of Middlebury students were released recently by Marion Holmes, College Registrar.

Ninety-four students, approximately seven per cent of the student body, made the Dean's List. Those undergraduates with an average of 85 or better with no grade below 80 will be allowed unlimited cuts during the first semester.

The top five male and female students in each class in the order of their second semester academic averages, are:

CLASS OF 1965: Peter Teige, David Chambers, Douglas Rhett, Marshall Eddy, and Donald Lund; Eloise Carlton, Carolyn Cassaday, Elizabeth Fink, Carolyn Curtiss, and Deborah Witherspoon.

CLASS OF 1966: Robert Adamec, James Ward, Frederick Kavanagh, Thomas Bullard, and George Buttler; Elizabeth Liston, Dianne Watson, Mary Brown, Ellyn Clemmer, and Marilyn Gowdey.

CLASS OF 1967: Terence Mosher, Sanford Shaw, Chester Bowie, Gordon Appleby, and Eric Kolvig; Louise Collins, Joan Viehdorfer, Allison Beinert, Deven Hayford, and Barbara McEvoy.

The second semester Dean's List is printed below.

Attention

Freshmen and Sophomores interested in a challenging and rewarding extra-curricular activity should report to THE CAMPUS office at 7 p. m. Sunday.

In addition to frequent opportunities for creative writing and interviews with student leaders, faculty and administration, the newspaper offers salaries to seven editors. Reporters, photographers, copy readers, sports-writers and staff assistants are all needed for the coming year.

A three week tryout program for all interested students will begin this Sunday evening at 7 p. m.

'Let Us Begin'

These three inspiring words used by John F. Kennedy are most appropriate for the Middlebury community as it begins its 165th year. For as its new president has repeatedly declared, Middlebury must "stand taller among the first-rate co-educational liberal arts colleges of this country and confront the challenge of survival which all small colleges face."

In order to strengthen both the human and physical base at the college Middlebury's Administration has embarked on a significant campaign. With the acceptance of the challenge of a $1.7 million matching grant from the Ford Foundation, Dr. Armstrong has publicly declared his intent to turn a good college into an outstanding institution.

This September must also be a time of declaration and initiative for the students. For though the Middlebury student body may be good, it is far from outstanding. Excellence, then, must be cultivated in both the academic and extracurricular life of the college.

Academically College Board scores and performance in Woodrow Wilson Fellowship competition indicate that Middlebury students have the potential and talent to rank with the top students in the country. Yet the large number of flunkouts indicates that many lack the drive to stay in college, much less to compete with students at better institutions.

The ideal of education for its own sake has too often been sacrificed by those students who rely on a friend's notes and study only a fraction of required reading material. Far too many take advantage of the "gut" course requiring little work for a modest grade. As a result lazy students do little more than purchase a degree and avoid the difficult, though rewarding challenges of higher education.

Mediocrity in extra-curricular activities presents a comparable challenge to the Middlebury student. Response to the major social and political developments of the last decade demonstrates that only a handful of Middlebury students have been active participants. The Civil Rights Conference of last April, the formation of a SANE group advocating nuclear disarmament and the agitation for an honor code at Middlebury all illustrate a concern for vital issues, yet pitifully few students have become involved; the overall response has been glaringly weak and sporadic.

First, the "Negro Revolt" or civil rights movement has been the major social phenomenon in America for over seven years, yet only two Middlebury students are known to have actively engaged in protest demonstrations in the South. Student groups at other campuses have sponsored registration drives, fund raising campaigns and exchange programs while Middlebury undergraduates have been content with a poorly supported Civil Rights group organized in the closing months of last year.

Second, in an election year when even Republican voters have expressed strong support for the Democratic nominee, Middlebury does not have a Young Democrats Club. The single instance of response to a national political controversy, the creation of SANE, was ill-supported and short-lived.

Finally, in an era when American undergraduates continually assert the need for increased social and academic independence, the Middlebury student body has failed to introduce an honor system promoting both freedom and individual responsibility.

Excellence, both in intellectual endeavor and in the realm of moral responsibility must become a very real goal of Middlebury students. For the student body must climb to new plateaus of achievement in academic and extracurricular affairs or, by lagging at its current level, fall far behind the alert and informed undergraduates at outstanding American institutions.

As President Armstrong has stated repeatedly in his first year in office, we want to act not simply react. The administration has accepted its challenge. As they enter a new year it is time for the students to heed President Kennedy's advice: "Let Us Begin."

Cummins, Mandel Honored In June Commencement

Commencement exercises at Middlebury June 8 were highlighted by an address from Francis Keppel, U. S. Commissioner of Education and the presentation of degrees to the largest graduating class in the college's history.

Keppel condemmed bigotry, conformity, and fear as dangers to academic freedom in the commencement address.

Keppel, former dean of the Harvard School of Education, delivered the speech to an audience of 1500 in the Memorial Field House.

Following the address 169 men and 129 women of the class of 1964 received their bachelor degree. The event marked the first time in th college's history that men and women received their diplomas together in alphabetical order.

At the head of the graduating class were Maxine M. Mandel and George M. Cummins, valedictorians; and Jean S. Waller and Richard N. Taylor, the honor reserved for the top Salutatorians, Valedictorian is male and female student in the graduating class; Salutatorians rank second.

Cummins and Miss Mandel were also graduated summa cum laude, as each had a four year average of better than 91. Magna cum laude honors were granted to five with cumulative averages between 89 and 91: Marjorie Lam, Floyd Moreland, Ronald Reese, Richard Taylor and Jean Waller. Twenty-two seniors with averages better than 85 graduated cum laude.

GRADUATES look over diplomas at last June's commencement.

A SUMMA CUM LAUDE GRADUATE and valedictorian of his class, George M. Cummins III receives his diploma from President Armstrong.

Eleven students were appointed to the Middlebury Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Those honored were: Deborah S. Crehan, George Cummins, Susan Hanson, Marjorie Lam, Maxine Mandel, Floyd Moreland, Ronald Reese, Karin Swanson, Richard Taylor, Jean Waller, and Lynne Webster.

Fourteen students received academic honors while six were awarded high honors. Honors graduates must achieve an average of 80 in their major field and receive between 85 - 89 on a senior thesis. To attain high honors, the thesis grade must be 90 or better, and students must have an average of better than 85 in the major field.

Receiving high honors were: Barbara Bailey, mathematics; Judith Denton, political science; Robert Finkelstein, philosophy; Clifford Fulton, history; Lucina Petersen, mathematics; and James Stiles, biology.

Honors graduates included: Gordon Bingham, economics; John Buttolph, geography; Howard Canaan, English; Terrence Colvin, economics; Roy Godson, political science; Mario Landa, history; David Riley, history; Karin Swanson, biology; John Thatcher, history; John Vecciolla, history; Jean Waller, English; Lynne Webster, sociology; and Walter Weld, history.

In addition to the awarding of a masters degree to six men and women, five honorary degrees were also conferred.

Recipients were: Commissioner Keppel; Deane Chandler Davis, president of the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont; Whitney Jennings Oates, Avalon professor of humanities at Princeton; Rosemary Park, president of Barnard College; and Kyriakos P. Tsolainos, chairman of the American Board of the Athens College, Greece.

Forty - three members of the Middlebury ROTC unit received commissions, with the oath administered by Colonel Richard H. Maeder. Three graduates received commissions from the U. S. Marine Corps reserve.

President Armstrong concluded the commencement program urging members of the class of 1964 "To seek, to strive, and not to yield."

Policy Statement

THE CAMPUS welcomes correspondence from its readers. Letters intended for publication should be so marked and signed in ink although the reader's name will be withheld upon request.

The editorial board retains the right to cut letters over 250 words. Any cussed with the author.

Newspaper To Feature Innovations

"Innovation" is the key word this year in the policy and format of Middlebury's newspaper, THE CAMPUS. This issue inaugurates a variety of features to be continued in weeks to come.

A better quality paper has been selected to permit sharper newsprint and clearer photographs.

Another first for THE CAMPUS is daily international and national news briefs to be posted in Proctor Hall. Entitled "In the News" bulletins, these capsule summaries of current world and national happenings will be in abbreviated form for quick comprehension and review by students.

In addition, THE CAMPUS is now accepting classified advertising for its next issue. Interested persons have the opportunity to insert FOR SALE notices, WANTED articles and the like. Classified ads, costing two cents per word, must be submitted to THE CAMPUS office by 7 p.m. Sunday evening.

Five Speakers

Celebrity Series Covers Peace Corps to Poetry

Five lectures featuring a wide-range of subjects are the highlight of Middlebury's 1964-65 Celebrity Series. Sponsored by the Board of Governors, this year's series will present talks on the Peace Corps, Latin America, poetry, social order, and extrasensory perception.

The Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Jr., presently Chaplain at Yale University, will inaugurate the series Oct. 5. His topic is "The University and the Social Order." Coffin has long been active in this country and abroad in the promotion of interfaith and interracial programs.

William L. Oltmans, author of the forthcoming biography on President Sukarno, I Am Indonesia, speaks Nov. 23 on "Peace Corps Diplomacy." Oltmans is at present the United States and United Nations correspondent for ten daily Dutch newspapers and the United States editor of the Afro-Asian magazine United Asia.

Feb. 21 brings to the Middlebury campus Dr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., historian, lecturer and author. Schlesinger is the author of Pulitzer Prize-winning The Age of Jackson. He also served in the White House from 1961 to 1964 as Special Assistant to President Kennedy and later to President Johnson. Schlesinger's topic is "Latin America: Danger or Destiny."

Stephen Spender, poet, literary critic, author and editor, will give a reading and commentary on his own poems March 4. In 1962 Spender was made Commander of the British Empire in the Honour's List on the Queen's birthday.

Concluding this year's series April 14 is Dr. J. B. Rhine, director of the Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke University and author of five books on extrasensory perception. Rhine, considered an outstanding authority and scientific pioneer in the field of parapsychology, will discuss "Extrasensory Perception: What Can We Make of It?"

WRMC Will Carry Daily CBS News

Through a special arrangement with WEAV-FM in Plattsburgh, N. Y., Middlebury's WRMC will carry CBS news and possibly other network radio programs this year.

News will be broadcast live weekdays at 2, 4, 5, 7, 8, 10, and 11 p. m. and Sundays at 5, 7, 8, and 10 p. m. according to WRMC President Jiffy Starr, '65. Each of the five to twenty minute news spots will be received by WRMC and then be immediately rebroadcast.

Following CBS coverage of international and national events will be a round-up of important state and campus news.

Addition of the CBS news programs, Miss Starr commented, is designed as a public service to help keep Middlebury students informed. Special CBS programs and sports may also be broadcast.

Another possible new WRMC feature, she said, would be a weekly discussion show with faculty members and student leaders.

Other WRMC changes this year include renovation of the station's console and installation of a new system of crystal control transmitters and new tape recording facilities.

Chaplain Charles P. Scott was dean of a five-week faculty seminar held this summer at Kenyon College in Ohio.

3 Sophs Earn Math Awards

Three members of the class of 1967 recently received awards for their achievement in mathematics courses last year. The awards came from the Chemical Rubber Company, according to Dr. Donald H. Ballou, chairman of the mathematics department.

Dana S. Brigham of West Newton, Mass., and William H. Prescott of Anchorage, Alaska, received the 1964 Mathematics Achievement Award for the most outstanding work done in the freshman math courses.

Richard S. Holthausen of Tenafly, N. J., was recognized for obtaining honor grades in a sophomore mathematics course.

For the class of 1966 the average compiled by the men was 76.22 and that attained by the co-eds was 80.63. The men in the class of 1967 averaged 75.21 for their second semester and the women 78.63.

On the negative side of the scholastic picture, 28 students had to leave school because of academic failure. Forty-three others are returning to Middlebury on probation this fall.

Of the 28 students who left school, two were seniors, four juniors, ten sophomores, and 12 freshmen. Thirty-five students were put on probation because of second semester grades; eight were re-admitted after having previously left the College. A ninth student, dismissed from school in a disciplinary action, has also been re-admitted.

DAWSON'S
COLLFGE SHOP

INSIDER'S GUIDE TO MIDDLEBURY

Stores in a college town which manage to stay in business more than five years without going bankrupt come to be known as "traditions" — and usually prosperous traditions. They'll cash a student's checks, allow him to run up bills, and scheme wildly for ways to part him from his money. Let's take The Vermont Book Shop on Main Street for an example. Middlebury students have made this one of the largest book and record stores in New England, and it seems to have just about any book you might want, or at least a good excuse for not having it.

The owner, Dike Blair, probably would like to be thought of as a local "character" but lacks the basic color. He bills himself as the "Genial Prop." of the store, but is about as genial as a mud turtle, though just as avaricious. When he is not taking his morning or afternoon nap in the store's cavernous cellar, he wanders about the floor smoking a somewhat nauseating briar pipe cooking up plans to sell more books and records.

One such plan is The Vermont Book Shop's "free record" club, in which a record is given free after the purchase of seven full-priced records, so that you can see the record is hardly "free". (In fairness, it should be stated that most stores using such a system require that ten or even twelve records be bought to qualify, however.)

Another trap at The Vermont Book Shop is a rack of art reproductions, quite good ones of watercolors and drawings. They sell these for only $1.00, nicely matted, though they look to be worth much more. The catch here is that they then try to sell you a simple but neat looking frame for the print. The frames cost $2.50, so before you've had time to think, you've shelled out $3.50 for a nicely-framed print. Well, actually that's a pretty good buy. They also have reproductions of oils mounted on cardboard at $1.98 which require no frame.

When exam time rolls around, The Vermont Book Shop will advertise that they have outlines for the various courses, and Mr. Blair will make a big fuss about how many outline series he carries. All right, it's true that outlines intelligently used can be a big help to supplement your notes, but don't wait until the end of the semester: get them now so that you can underline them, and let them help on days you did not take good notes, or were absent.

Perhaps the most cynical thing Mr. Blair has done is to publish a sort of book titled "Books and Bedlam" which he sells for a dollar. The book actually is nothing but a series of ads for his store, though it must be admitted that the book is quite funny in places, and most Middleburians get a kick from it. If you think a few laughs are worth a buck, go ahead and buy it. You can always send it to your father for his birthday.

Oh — that's one good thing The Vermont Book Shop will do: gift-wrap and mail books and records for you, which makes gift-giving easy. And you can always charge them and pay next month.

184 Join Fraternities; Rush Week 'Went Well'

The signing of bids Tuesday morning ended open rushing for 184 participating sophomore men. As in the past, there was 100 per cent affiliation for those desiring fraternity membership. Between 10 and 12 men chose to remain independent.

"Everything went very well," according to John Riker '65, president of the Interfraternity Council. "We had everything straightened out by 10 p.m. Sunday night. Maybe there was less trouble than usual, but the shortened time period seemed to work out well. There was a lot of cooperation between houses, and we feel most men got into the right house."

Seventeen Join College Faculty

Poet Robert Pack, Others To Teach in Humanities

Robert Pack, well-known young American poet and associate professor of poetry at Barnard College, who has served in the past on the staff of the Middlebury College Bread Loaf Writers' Conference, has been appointed a regular member of the Middlebury faculty in September as assistant professor of English.

A former Fullbright Fellow, Mr. Pack has taught seven years at Barnard College. He received a B.A. degree from Dartmouth and his M.A. at Columbia University.

He has had several volumes of poetry published including three books, an anthology and poems in six different magazines this year. He is presently working on a new volume of poems, a long poem and a book of essays on modern poetry based in part on ten lectures he gave last year.

His latest publicatons, three volumes of poetry, include Guarded By Women, How To Catch A Crocodile, and New and Selected Poems.

Robert Arnold

An English instructor at the University of Vermont, Robert Arnold of Brandon, Vt. is a visiting lecturer for the next academic year. Arnold has B.A. and M. A. degrees from Harvard University.

MR. ROBERT PACK

Robert L. Ferm

Dr. Robert L. Ferm of Claremont, Calif. will serve as visiting associate professor of religion for this year. He received his B. A. at Wooster College and his B.D., M. A. and Ph.D. at Yale University and is presently associate professor of religion at Pomona College

Robert B. Muirhead

Named to the department of fine arts is Robert B. Muirhead of Allston, Mass. He received his B.F.A. at Rhode Island School of Design and has been doing graduate work for his M.F.A. at Boston University before accepting his post as an instructor at Middlebury.

McKenna Chosen New Librarian

John R. McKenna, librarian at Colby College for the past seven years, has been named new Middlebury College librarian. The appointment became effective September 1.

McKenna succeeds the late Mrs. Mischa H. Fayer.

Middlebury's new librarian graduated in 1947 from Queen's University, Ontario with a B.A. degree. He also holds a bachelor of library science degree from McGill University.

McKenna has contributed articles to the Colby library Quarterly and has directed the Colby College Summer School Library Workshop since 1957.

New librarian McKenna said Monday that no major changes will be made in the Middlebury Library until a thorough study is made.

Gradual improvements under consideration include expansion of present collections, extension of hours, and increased participation in independent study programs.

Coney, Lane Hold Places In Sciences

Peter J. Coney and Frank G. Lane will teach this year at Middlebury in the field of the natural sciences.

Coney joins the Middlebury faculty as a geology instructor from the University of New Mexico where he is a graduate student. He holds a B. A. from Colby College and an M.S. from the University of Maine.

Dr. Frank Lane

Dr. Lane of Cornwall has been appointed director of the Teacher Training Program. He will also be lecturer of mathematics.

He holds a B.S. from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and an M.D. from the University of Vermont. He was also a trainee in Human Genetics at the University of Michigan for four years.

Dr. Lane served as instructor in biology at Middlebury in 1949-51 and 1962-63.

Cubeta Named Bread Loaf Head

New director of the Middlebury College Bread Loaf School of English is Dr. Paul M. Cubeta, chairman of the Division of the Humanities. He succeeds Dr. Reginald L. Cook who retired recently after 19 years service in the post.

Cubeta holds a B.A. degree from Williams College and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Yale University. He came to Middlebury in 1952, became an assistant professor in 1955, associate professor in 1960 and full professor in January of this year.

The new director is president of the Beta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at Middlebury and has served for the last nine years as assistant director of the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference.

DR. WILLIAM CATTON

Three Are New In History Dept., Political Science

There will be two new faces in the history department and one in the department of political science.

N. Lloyd Axworthy of Princeton, N. J., will serve as a political science instructor. He holds a B. A. from the University of Manitoba and an M. A. from Princeton University where he is now working on his doctorate.

Marjorie E. Lamberti comes to Middlebury from New Haven, Conn., as history instructor. She holds a B. A. degree from Smith and received her M. A. from Yale University, where she is a graduate student.

Dr. William B. Catton, assistant professor of history at Princeton University and Civil War author, has joined the college faculty as associate professor of History.

The new Middlebury faculty member has served six years at Princeton, three years as instructor and three more years as assistant professor. Before that he was an instructor at the University of Maryland and teaching assistant at Northwestern.

He has collaborated in writing two books on the Civil War. The first of these was with his father Bruce Catton, the widely read Civil War author, on Two Roads To Sumter. He also joined with Arthur S. Link in American Epoch.

Five on Faculty Are Promoted

Five faculty members have recently received promotions in their respective departments, according to John Bowker, dean of the faculty.

Paul M. Cubeta, formerly an associate professor of English, has been named to a full professorship.

An assistant professor in the French department, James M. Watkins, has become an associate professor.

Philosophy instructor Visvaldis V. Klive, English instructor Edward A. Martin, and mathematics instructor Bruce B. Peterson have all advanced to the post of assistant professor.

Foreign Language Division Has Seven New Faculty Members

The foreign languages division boasts seven new faculty members.

Miss Mara Isaks, of Los Angeles, Calif., will be instructor in German at Middlebury. She received a B.A. from Indiana University, attended the Middlebury German Summer School in 1959 and 1960 and received her M.A. from the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Tatiana Kelly

Mrs. Tatiana Sokolova Kelly, a native of Russia and now resident of Monroeville, Pa., will serve as lecturer in Russian and directress of the Russian Section of Allen Hall.

She attended schools in Tiflis, Georgia, Russia and received her B.A. degree in 1963 from the University of Pittsburgh, where she served as lecturer one year.

Suzanne Levacher

Miss Suzanne Levacher comes to Middlebury from Kompong-Cham, Cambodia where she was a professor at Lycees de Battambang for the past three years.

Mario Moffa

A former teaching assistant at Rutgers University, Mario Moffa will join the Middlebury faculty as an instructor in Spanish. Mr. Moffa received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Alabama.

Returning to his alma mater where he received a B.A. is Samuel F. Orth, Jr., of Roanoke, Va. Mr. Orth, who obtained his M.A. from Brown, is teaching Russian here.

A new instructor in Spanish, Rafael Osuna of Flushing, N.Y. holds a Licenciado en Filosofia y Letras from the University of Madrid and has lectured in Spanish this year at Queens College.

Miss Laurie M. Perry, who received her master's degree from Middlebury College and is on the staff of the Spanish Summer School here, joined the Spanish department of the College this week as an assistant professor.

Miss Perry comes to Middlebury from Panama where she was an instructor in English and Spanish at the U. S. Air Force School for Latin America.

Miss LAURIE M. PERRY

Rikert Named College Treasuer; Ross Appointed Business Manager

Election of Carroll Rikert, Jr., to serve as treasurer of Middlebury College, was announced in June by President Armstrong. He succeeds Mr. Fred P. Lang, treasurer since 1952. Lang will continue to serve as a trustee and as chairman of the Finance Committee.

Rikert, a native of Northfield, Mass., is a graduate of Mount Hermon School and Harvard College. He holds a master of business administration degree from Harvard Business School and is a certified public accountant.

He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Northfield and Mount Hermon Schools and was elected earlier this year to the executive committee of the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers.

During his term, Lang carried the responsibilities of the treasurer during a decade of expansion in the college, a major building program, and a change of administration. Lang made annual provision in the budget for maintenance, modernization and replacement of buildings and equipment as well as reorganizing the accounting system of the College.

James D. Ross will succeed Carroll Rikert as the new business manager of the college, according to Dr. Armstrong. For the past eight years, Ross has held the post of assistant business manager and business manager of athletics. He has also served as assisting assistant purchasing agent.

Dr. Armstrong also announced that Bernard R. Carpenter, manager of the College Store, will be advanced to the post of assistant business manager.

Carpenter, a native of Kezar Falls, Me., joined the Middlebury business staff in 1961 as administrative assistant in the financial offices. He has been manager of the Middlebury College Store since 1962.

Gifts to the College Total $557,104

Total gifts and grants to the College for the year ending June 30 amounted to $557,104.

Of this, $177,626 was received from alumni and $65,468 from the Parents' Fund. Other individuals contributed $98,182, corporations $56,864, foundations $73,347 and $85,615 was received from other sources.

All gifts and grants received from July 1 of this year, to July 1, 1967, will be counted as matching funds for the $1,700,000 Ford Foundation grant.

Ford Grant . . .

were also made to Colgate, Vassar, Mills, St. Olaf, and New York University, are given to advance the development of selected private institutions of higher education as national and regional centers of excellence. Fourteen Negro colleges were also given grants, although they need not match the awards.

In describing the Special Program in Education, its director, James W. Armsey, said, "It aims to build on excellence in a group of institutions with varying backgrounds, geographic locations, and plans for the future.

"At the same time, the program seeks to stimulate support for higher education beyond the amount of the Foundation's grants. The matching requirements are designed to help the recipient institution increase the size and number of gifts from alumni, business and industry, and other donors, and thus to broaden the base for continuing support."

Armsey said that the grants under the Special Program can be used at the discretion of the recipient colleges, "unlike most Foundation grants, which are made for specific purposes."

Private institutions, said Armsey, "are selected for the grants on the basis of their tradition of scholarship, their plans and ability to make pacesetting improvements, the quality of their leadership, and the strength of their support from alumni and other sources. Each grant is intended to strengthen ability to achieve and sustain new standards, both in scholarship and administrative effectiveness."

FORMER DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS for Women Barbara Wells is now executive secretary for the Ford Challenge Program.

Wells Resigns For Ford Post

Miss Barbara A. Wells resigned Tuesday as director of admissions for women and assumed a new position as executive secretary for the Ford Challenge Program at Middlebury.

In making this announcement, President Armstrong expressed his great appreciation for the outstanding and devoted work of Miss Wells in the admissions office over a period of 12 years, and said his "regret is only alleviated by the knowledge that the college will continue to have her services in a new and important capacity."

She will play a prominent role in Middlebury's effort to raise the $3,400,000 in new resources required to qualify for the recently announced $1,700,000 challenge grant by the Ford Foundation.

Miss Wells, who holds B. A. and M. A. degrees from Middlebury, was a member of the faculty of Skidmore College before returning to Middlebury in 1946 as alumnae secretary and placement director for women.

UVM Challenge Starts '64-65 Soccer Season

By BOB HINTERMAIER

The Panther soccer team opens its 10-game schedule Saturday against the University of Vermont. Last year the Catamounts posted an impressive 5-1 record in their first season of practice sessions and should provide the home forces with a rough test in their first encounter.

Coach Morrone is guardedly optimistic about his squad's fortunes this year and was pleased with their performance last weekend. In two practice outings against Castleton State Teacher's College and Williams, the Panthers copped two victories, by 4-2 and 3-2 counts respectively.

The Castleton victory came on two goals by Bjorn Bergman, and one each by Tim Carey and sophomore sensation Farrokh Ghazanfari. Knisky and Mooney scored for the losers.

The Williams contest saw Farrokh complete his hat trick with the first and winning goals, while Dave Nicholson added the middle marker on an assist by Dick Ide. Skip Caine and Budge Upton hit the mark for Williams.

The victory was not without its Pyrrhic aspects, as Dan Schick reinjured an ankle sprain received Tuesday in practice, and Roger Herrmann, last year's high scorer, reinjured a knee that sidelined him for half the season last year.

Despite these injuries, Coach Joe Morrone's booters should be ready for their best season in several years. Depth is the keynote, with at least two and sometimes three players of skill and aggressiveness at each position.

Co-Captain Dick Ide heads the corps of forwards, with seniors Tim Carey and Bruce Gunther. Bjorn Bergman, Roger Herrmann, Pete Marks, Don Myers, Dave Nicholson, Dan Schick, and Don Snyder are able juniors, while Stuart Bicknell, Farrokh Ghazanfari, Frank Nicolosi and John Perkins round out the line as sophs.

The halfback group is bolstered by the skill of co-captain Jobe Stevens and the experienced Mike Heaney. Juniors Tom Easton and Red Raymond are reinforced by sophs Dick Hall, Tom Moore and Gary Olinger.

Jed Maker and Lew Wilson are seniors at the fullback slot, aided by juniors Roy Slaunwhite and All-American Davis Webb. Soph Pete Kovner also fills in here.

Freeman Allen and Bayard Russ will stop the shots as juniors and soph Phil Davis will also get his chance in the nets.

With this much depth, the Panthers should go a long way toward improving last year's sixth-place standing in the thirty-team New England Intercollegiate Soccer League. Hopes are also high for improving on last year's defensive showing — second in the East.

Panther Football Team Faces Wesleyan Saturday

By KARL LINDHOLM

Armed with a new offense and a high morale, the 1964 Panther football team faces a stern opening test this Saturday at Porter Field against a seasoned Wesleyan University eleven.

"Duke" Nelson will combat the overall strength of the Cardinals by uncovering a new attack patterned after a wide-open play popular today in the professional football ranks.

The offense will operate from a winged-T formation with an unbalanced line. The aerial game is emphasized in this brand of football and Middlebury rooters will find the pigskin in the air much more often this year than in the past few campaigns.

Coach Nelson tailored this offense to fit his personnel, and he appears to have one solid, veteran eleven capable of transfering his wing — T blueprint from the blackboard to the field.

The starting backfield is studded with reliable faces. Jeff McKay, a 6'2" senior, has been throwing well in pre-season play and looks set in the number one quarterback berth. Providing Coach Nelson with back-up support at this vital spot is Mike McIntyre, a seasoned performer from Middlebury, Vt., who will undoubtedly see much action in Saturday's encounter.

In the two running back slots are two hard-nosed junior speedsters, Nick Van Nes and Fred Beams. An explosive runner at 192 lbs., Beams was the team's leading ground gainer last year as a sophomore with 4.3 yards per carry.

Co-captain Al Reilly (5'11", 185 lbs.) is set at wing back. A three-year performer, Reilly combines hard running, sure hands, and blocking ability in this all purpose role.

The other co-captain, 215 lb. Dave Giddings from Pittsfield, Mass., anchors the formidable first line at tackle. Another senior letter-winner Fran Love at 220 lbs. owns the tackle position and gives the Panthers the finest tackle combination in the state.

Two juniors share the important guard assignment. Dave Terry and Jim Davis, who weigh in at 200 lbs. apiece. Both have good speed and are agressive blockers and tacklers.

Senior John Kingman, formerly a fullback, is taking his stance in the middle of the line this season. John, the biggest man on the squad at 6' 5", 230 lbs., responded to the need of an experienced hand at center.

Picking up the passes of McKay and McIntyre will be seniors Bob Royer (6' 3", 190 lbs.) and Grant Matheke (6' 2", 190 lbs.) and junior Jeff Demong, a 6' 1" returning starter who tips the scales at an even 200 lbs.

Lack of depth is the principle problem facing Nelson and his assistants. Halfback Jim Hunt and Jack Mettee, fullback Larry Leahy, and tackle John Allen are the only veterans with any real game experience cast in the role of substitutes.

The gruelling three weeks of pre-season drill, however, uncovered some promising sophomore talent, as well as honing the squad into top-notch physical condition. Paul Ford, a rugged 195 lb. linebacker, 200 lb. tackle Jon Coffin, swift halfback Rick Eaton, and 185 lb. defensive end and kicking specialist Gary Margolis, are all sophomores primed for important contributions this Saturday.

COACH WALTER "DUKE" NELSON displays the Richard C. Rapp Memorial Award with David R. Holmes, co-captain of the 1963 football team.

Richard C. Rapp Memorial Award Honors First-String Footballer

A Richard C. Rapp Memorial Football Award has been established by the 1963 Middlebury College football team Coach Walter J. (Duke) Nelson announced recently.

The award, a bronze plaque, honors the first-string center, a member of the class of '64 who died in an automobile accident in August, 1963.

The plaque will be presented annually to the senior lineman who has best demonstrated his determination to excel in his position. The first award will be made at the end of the current football season.

According to Nelson, the lineman named for the honor need not be a first-string player. It will go, Nelson said, to a boy who has "worked and worked" to excel.

Dick Rapp, a three-letterman in football and baseball, was that kind of a boy, Nelson pointed out.

"He was the type of boy who worked 100 per cent to improve, both in offense and defense," Nelson said. "The first year, he showed great ability in offense. In the second year he developed great ability in defense as well. He always tried to excel in anything he was doing — studies, sports, or extra-curricular activities.

The last time he played for Middlebury, Nelson recalled, Rapp blocked a punt against Vermont, in the key game of the season. The club went on to score a touchdown and win 14.6.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a former resident of Hartford, Conn., Rapp was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Rapp of Bloomfield, Conn. He was a graduate of Loomis School, Windsor, Conn., and a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. In the summer of 1963 he worked as a reporter for The Berkshire Eagle, a Pittsfield, Mass., newspaper, under a Wall Street Journal scholarship.

Bonfire Rally Slated for Friday

The Middlebury band, cheerleaders and freshmen will spark the annual pep-rally and bonfire at 9 p. m. tomorrow night in hopes that cheer and blaze will fire the football team to success in Saturday's contest with Wesleyan.

In a meeting Monday night in Hepburn Zoo, Fred Beams '66, representing the Blue Key, organized the freshmen for piling wood into a 20' bonfire stack.

Also at the meeting, ten freshman men volunteered to ring the Old Chapel bell after homegames, should the bonfire voodoo do its stuff and Middlebury win.

The freshmen were also informed of the Homecoming float tradition. Four freshmen floats are to be built this year.

Ivy Center Will Coach Basketball

James G. Alaimo, former All-Ivy basketball center has been named varsity basketball coach, freshman soccer and lacrosse coach, and instructor in physical education for men. Alaimo captained the Brown basketball team in 1958 and, with 1046 points, was the fourth highest scorer in Brown's history.

Alaimo holds a B. A. from Brown and has done graduate work at Rhode Island College. He has coached and played basketball with the U. S. Army during three years of service in Europe and was freshman basketball coach at Brown last year.

Alaimo has plunged right into his coaching duties at Middlebury, conducting regular freshman soccer practice and working with some of the varsity basketball players in his spare time. The new coach plans to start regular basketball practice Oct. 15.

JUNIOR DAVIS WEBB varsity fullback on the Middlebury soccer team, is pictured on the cover of the 1964 NCAA Official Soccer Guide. He received All-American honorable mention in his first year of varsity soccer play and was a key defensive man in the Panther 5-1-2 record.

Science Proves Amazing When It Is Found That . . .

By JEFF ALDERMAN

We read with interest this summer the following:

"The bigger the brain, the smaller the breast, and vice-versa, the bigger the breast, the smaller the I. Q."

We've often suspected it, but now a professor from Texas has offered some scientific proof.

The quote is from Dr. Erwin O. Strassman, a clinical professor at Baylor University, Houston, Texas, and an authority on fertility.

To the dismay of girls in the mammoth mammary league, Dr. Strassman has gone on record saying that women with small breasts are generally more intelligent than their bosomy sisters.

So convinced of this is Dr. Strassman that he published his findings in the summer issue of the International Journal of Fertility, which, despite its intriguing title, is not another Hugh Heffner publicaion.

The good professor based his thesis on data he gathered while studying 717 childless women.

I think we can take the professor seriously (I'm sure he does), for he has been studying the relationship of body-build to fertility for 40 years.

I doubt if I have to ask you to imagine the ramifications of this newest scientific development.

If the theory is accepted, think of what it could mean to college admissions departments.

I doubt if it would have much effect on Middlebury's admissions procedure; they seem to have known about and accepted the theory long ago.

But imagine what it would mean to other colleges which have not been as forward in their admissions policies. New questions on application forms. More importance placed on the medical examinations and less on college boards and academic records.

I can hear the admissions director now:

"Your board score and general average are excellent, but I'm afraid that your bust measurements indicate that you could not handle the load at this college. Have you applied to Red Hilltop Junior College?"

Dr. Strassman has some other interesting statistics. He says that chesty women tend to marry earlier and have more children than lesser endowed females. On the other hand, flat-chested women tend to delay marriage and give birth to fewer children.

In his fertility studies, the doctor found that most infertile women were small-breasted and intelligent.

"There is a basic antagonism between intelligence and the reproductive system in infertile women," he said.

If we accept Dr. Strassman's theory — and with women like Jayne Mansfield around to back it up, we must — one thing is sure: Middlebury men certainly have no physiological excuse for being less intelligent than Middlebury women.

BOG Activities Fair on Tonight

Freshmen will be introduced to Middlebury's major campus organizations at the annual activities fair tonight.

Sponsored by the Board of Governors, the exhibition is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p. m. in Proctor Hall Lounge and adjacent rooms, according to Thomas Sheldon '67, head of BOG's fair committee.

Among the groups to be represented at the fair are the Debating Club; the Newman Club; Stimulus; The Student Association; the Ski Patrol; WRMC the college radio station; the Middlebury College Players; the Young Republicans; the Mountain Club; the newly formed civil rights group; the French, Spanish, German, and Russian clubs; the Winter Carnival Organization; the International Relations Club; and THE CAMPUS.

'Goddess' First In Film Series

The Concert-Film Series is featuring The Goddess as the season's first showing Saturday evening at 7 in Wright Memorial Theatre. There is no admission charge.

Acclaimed as one of the "ten best" by Time, the New York Times and the National Board of Review, the film tells of a young girl's relentless pursuit of Hollywood fame.

Lloyd Bridges and Kim Stanley star in the film; screenplay is by Paddy Chayefsky, of Marty and Gideon fame.

Annual Frosh Party Planned For Saturday

Freshmen will invade the Bread Loaf campus Saturday for the annual class party featuring dinner, entertainment, and dancing.

The Board of Governors will sponsor the program. Buses are scheduled to leave Carr Hall at 5 p. m.

After an outdoor barbecue dinner, the "Dissipated Eight" and "The Instigators," a college folk-singing trio, will serenade the freshmen. To complete the evening's social activities, "The Strappers" will play music for dancing until 11 p. m., when the buses will return to the campus.

Although there will be no charge for the Bread Loaf activities, the round-trip bus ride will cost $1 per person. Freshmen interested in attending should sign up for the bus ride at the Proctor Hall information desk before tomorrow noon.

A New Year

Grounds, Buildings Improved This Summer; Many Offices to Move

By ALAN MAGARY
Executive Editor

Summer brought many changes to the physical appearance of Middlebury's campus.

The buildings and grounds department has been busy installing new sidewalks and curbs in addition to black-topping roads, particularly in areas around McCullough Gymnasium, Stewart Hall, the new Service Building, and Munroe Hall. New trees have been planted and the elms and maples pruned.

The face-lifting operation has gone on inside college buildings as well. The Field House has been equipped with an additional shower room. The Battells and parts of Proctor Hall were repainted and intercom paging systems installed in Forest East and West.

Proctor Lounge now sports two Oriental rugs while the Crest Room has been redecorated and brightened with a green plastic plant. The golf course clubhouse features a new bathroom, additional locker space and vending machines.

Other major projects involved the sale of Casa Espanola and the Voter House to make way for the new Edwin S. S. Sunderland Language Center and the Charles A. Dana Auditorium. Contractors are now laying foundations for the building to be completed by September of next year.

Various administration offices are also being moved. The economics building has been remodeled to house the alumni and placement offices. The admissions office will be relocated in Emma Willard House on South Pleasant Street. The offices of the deans of men and women in Old Chapel will be occupied by Dean of the College Thomas Reynolds and Dean of Faculty John Bowker. Dean of Men Frederic Swift and Dean of Women Elizabeth Kelly will move to the offices occupied by admissions.

The new College treasurer, Carroll Rikert, will have an office on the third floor of Old Chapel.

Now located in the new service building are the campus police, print shop, secretarial office, mailing service, and purchasing agent.

Table for Novice Voters Compiled by Young GOP

The United States Bureau of Census officials estimate that approximately 10.4 million persons will be old enough to cast their first presidential ballot in the 1964 election. The Young Republicans of Middlebury College have compiled a table of registration procedures for those voting for the first time.

According to Peter O. Hefron '67, head of the group, the move is a "forerunner to a more comprehensive campus poll to be conducted. A survey of students' ages and political preferences," he went on, "may accompany our annual membership drive and may prove significant in the light of the coming national elections."

Of the 15 states best represened here at Middlebury, ten demand registration in person, and in some states, population and place of residence influences procedure.

The following voter registration table gives the length of time one must be a resident of the state before registering, and the dates by which one must register for the primary and general elections in that order. If only one date is listed it refers to the general election.

COLORADO 1 yr., Aug. 19, Oct. 14
ILLINOIS, 1 yr., Oct. 5
MAINE, 6 mos., varies
MARYLAND, 1 yr., Sept. 21
MICHIGAN, 6 mos., July 6, Oct. 5
MASSACHUSETTS, 1 yr. Aug. 14, Oct. 2
MINNESOTA, 6 mos., Aug. 18, Oct. 3
NEW HAMPSHIRE, 6 mos., varies
NEW JERSEY, 6 mos., Sept. 24
OHIO, 1 yr., Sept. 24
PENNSYLVANIA, 1 yr., Sept. 24
RHODE ISLAND, 1 yr., July 17, Sept. 24
VERMONT, 1 yr., Sept. 5, Oct. 31
VIRGINIA 1 yr., June 13, Oct. 3

All voters must be 21 on day of election.

Moyer Assists Chaplain Scott

John Moyer will serve as assistant to Chaplain Charles P. Scott during the coming year. Moyer, a third year theological student from California, will be the fourth Danforth Seminary intern to serve at Middlebury.

The program of grants allows men with two years of theological school to spend their third year on a college campus. They act as a chaplain's assistant to obtain additional training before returning to their final year at the seminary.

Part of Moyer's duties as assistant to the chaplain will be to serve as a discussion leader in the religion department and as a dormitory resident in Hepburn.

Moyer obtained a B. A. in philosophy at the University of Southern California and is now a student at Presbyterian Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Calif.

Chapel Service Begins This Sunday

The first regular Chapel service of the year begins Sunday at 4:45 p. m. under the direction of Chaplain Charles P. Scott.

Services for the coming year will be ecumenical and will often feature guest speakers. James G. Chapman, instructor in music, returning after a year's absence, will lead the college choir.

As in past years, Chapel affairs, including allocation of offerings will be the responsibility of the Chapel Board under moderator John Carter '66.

Communion services are also held in Mead Chapel each week. Students wishing to attend the Episcopalian service are urged to participate any Wednesday at 7 a. m.

Tomorrow Last Day Of BOG Book Sale

Students have one more day to purchase used books at the Board of Governor's second annual book sale in the Proctor Hall cloakroom.

Used textbooks may be bought from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow at prices set by the original owners, who receive 90 per cent of the selling price. The remaining 10 per cent goes towards the maintenance of Proctor Hall.

Where Have All the Students Gone?

The official College Directory will not be published until mid or late October according to Marion Holmes, College Registrar. As a service to Middlebury students, THE CAMPUS is printing the names and addresses of sophomore, junior and senior men and women. Freshman class names and addresses are listed in New Faces, available at the Proctor Hall information desk.

Please note that the room lists were prepared in early Septmber and do not show last minute changes and dormitory assignments made since school opened.

Sawyer Receives Degree

FOLLOWING THE CONVOCATION at which he was speaker, Williams' President Sawyer chats with Dr. Armstrong and Dean Reynolds. Photo by O'Neill

President John E. Sawyer of Williams College received an honorary Doctor of Letters degree from Middlebury last Sunday. The degree was conferred by Dr. Armstrong at Freshman Convocation.

As guest speaker, President Sawyer told the assembled freshmen that the case for the liberal arts undergraduate education is stronger than ever before. Because the rate of the change in technology and in institutions has been so rapid, pre cise technical training alone cannot possibly meet the challenges of 10, 20 or 30 years from now.

The kind of problems graduates are going to face — in government, in international policies, in administration, in science cannot be foreseen Sawyer said. But for men and women who will be carrying responsibilities in this "fast spinnng world," the elasticity of the liberal arts education, "awakening the capacity to see, to understand and to respond over as wide an arc as possible," is the most durable and in some sense the most practical training.

Capt. Edwards Joins ROTC Unit; Major Burr Transferred

Capt. Richard I. Edwards, of Philadelphia, Pa., has been named to the ROTC faculty unit as assistant professor of military science.

A 1957 graduate of West Point, Capt. Edwards came to Middlebury from Ft. Benning, Ga., where he attended an advanced career officers' course.

Another member of the Middlebury staff, Richard A. Burr, was recently promoted to Major. He has also received orders transferring him to Viet Nam, where he will report in late October as military advisor under the government's stepped-up program for U. S. forces there.

Major Burr has served 11 years as an artillery officer. He has been a member of the faculty of the Middlebury ROTC program for two years.

Captain Edwards served three years in Berlin and witnessed the erection of the Berlin Wall and the criss that followed.

Armstrong's Speech...

than simply react. There is an urgency brought about by the tremendously rapid expansion of knowledge. On the geological scale more has happened in the last fifty years than in the ones before.

Let me try to tell you what the major concerns ought to be in my judgement.

I have said, and I will be saying again and again, that the most important single effort over the next ten years will be to maintain and strengthen the human base of the College. I mean by this phrase all the people who make up the College, but I mean especially the Faculty. This is a mandate to myself, to the Trustees, to the Alumni and to all who are deeply committed to the importance of the liberal arts anywhere and especially to the liberal arts at Middlebury.

I relate this mandate directly to our survival and to our reason for existence. Indeed the whole rationale for the small liberal arts college is at stake in the quality of the Faculty. We believe, and it is a costly belief, that liberal education proceeds best when the student is in touch with his teacher, is engaged in serious intellectual discourse with an intelligent and informed adult mind — with teachers whether instructors or full professors.

We must have teacher-scholars who are alive in their subjects and who are themselves humanly greater than their subject. And how can we do this? Not solely by increasing salaries though increase we must, and not solely by going into the competitive market - place though compete we must. What we have to do is to provide as favorable an environment as possible for the teacher to achieve his professional objectives.

Hence, we shall look to strengthening our library holdings, to leaves of absence for research and study, to a new faculty research fund, to rigorous standards of promotion with commensurate salary increases.

Engagement with teachers is possible only when the teacher has time to be engaged and to be professionally alive. A good faculty will draw good students and good students will help keep a good faculty. It is a mutually sustaining or reciprocal effect. We will be looking for students who are not status-seekers, but young people who are hotly in pursuit of an understanding of themselves and the world about them.

Beyond assuring that the quality of the human base is high, we are planning other ways in which we shall respond to the challenge of survival.

We have been struggling with the question of size. It appears to us now that some growth will be healthy, and indeed, we feel, necessary over the next ten years.

The Trustees had taken this decision before I came to Middlebury; all my observations confirm the wisdom of that decision. Perhaps the best way to describe what I believe should happen is to say that in ten years' time Middlebury will grow about 35% and yet will still be regarded as a relatively small college — i. e. a college of 1600 to 1800 students, and this will be small in comparison to what will be happening in a great many institutions.

If we grow to 1800, obviously our endowment must grow — endowment to bridge the gap between income and cost and especially in the areas of

1. Faculty salaries
2. Scholarship funds
3. Leaves of absence
4. Research
5. Library Holdings

And finally, we have two major needs for new facilities, a Science Center and a Music-Art Center.

And how are we to gain these ends? There is no easy road. I have no magic wand or word. There are ways, nonetheless, to achieve our goals — ways which depend upon energy and conviction.

The goal is worthy of our greatest support — to raise up men and women "of integrity, of intelligence and of good will" — men and women sensitized in their human values and understanding — who have responded to the liberal arts with new vision and increased capacity for action and service."

Smoking Doesn't Worry Students

In a recent survey made by Mademoiselle magazine, it was found that the Surgeon General's report on the dangers of smoking had not substantially affected the smoking habits of college students.

"Neither smokers nor non-smokers opposed cigarettes per se," says the magazine. "The attitude was pretty much live and let live, or, die; suicide is a private affair.

THE
National Security Agency
is a totally unique organization

. . . and offers creative research opportunities in the art and science of sophisticated communications

There is absolutely no other organization like it . . . no other organization doing the same important work, or offering the same wealth of opportunity for imaginative thinkers in the Liberal Arts, as well as the Physical and Engineering Sciences.

The National Security Agency is a major research arm of the Department of Defense, but its influence and responsibilities are far broader. It works closely with many industrial and research institutions; it has special access to scientific information at universities and other Government laboratories; and it enjoys close consulting arrangements with scientists of commanding stature. NSA staff members enjoy all the benefits of Federal employment without the requirements imposed by the Civil Service system.

What does NSA do that warrants this unique stature?

NSA approaches the subject of sophisticated communications from these original standpoints:

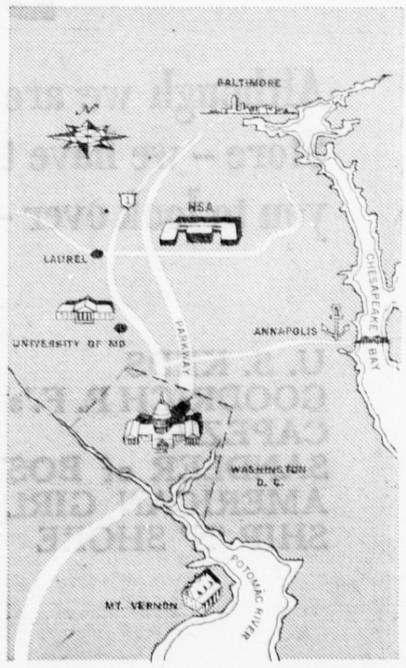
1. Creating secure communications systems and equipments unknown anywhere else, and devising special refinements for computers & edp systems that will increase our handling capabilities. This means that Communications Engineers, Computer Design Specialists, Mathematicians, Programmers, and Systems Analysts, all contribute to the design of antennas, transmitters, receivers, and terminal equipment . . . to experiments using new semiconductors, magnetic film, superconductive devices, etc., resulting in new logic circuits and memory units, better high-gain arrays for UHF radio systems, higher-capacity data handling terminal equipment, more effective speech band-width compression . . . and scores of similar advances.

2. By the very nature of "secure" communications, assuring the continuing invulnerability of U.S. communications through cryptologic procedures and techniques. Because cryptology and its cryptographic counterpart are not taught elsewhere, mathematicians, scientists—and all others with appropriate intellectual curiosity—will be taught this challenging new discipline right at NSA. Work in this field may involve specially-designed computers, television, computer-to-computer data links, and edp programming. (Even music, philosophy, or the classics may be useful prerequisites for cryptology!)

3. Translating written data, and presenting the crux of the material in meaningful form. This is the home of the linguistics expert and the languages graduate—enabling the talented graduate to make the most of his or her particular gift, and quickly expand familiarity with other tongues.

In all that NSA does, there is seldom any existing precedent. Only NSA pioneers in secure communications on this broad a scale, so only NSA offers the college graduate the best chance to make immediate use of his disciplined thinking . . . without years of post-graduate experience. All these features—together with its well-instrumented laboratories, libraries, and professional staff of specialists in amazingly varied fields—provide a stimulating academic atmosphere for individual accomplishment.

On-Campus Interviews
for Mathematicians and Engineers will be held later. Consult your Placement Office for dates.



NSA is located in expanding facilities at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland—halfway between Washington and Baltimore. It is handy to transportation facilities, the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins, suburban or rural living (in-town living, too, now that the new circumferential highways are completed) . . . and the Chesapeake Bay resort region.

LIBERAL ARTS SENIORS: Your PQT Application must be mailed before November 27th

This is most important: To apply for an NSA position, all students EXCEPT Mathematicians, Engineers, and Physicists must take the PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATION TEST scheduled for Saturday, December 12th. Stop in at your Placement Office and ask for the NSA Professional Qualification Test brochure . . . fill out and mail in the application card enclosed inside . . . and bring to the test the ticket you will receive by mail.

Even if you are not sure of your career interests yet, get the facts on NSA opportunities now.

Freshman Week Proved Busy, Fun, Stimulating

By MAUREEN BUEHLER

Now that the rush of orientation week is over, freshmen have a chance to look back over four memorable first days at Middlebury.

The first activity which drew the class of '68 together was the Friday evening panel discussion, "Morality, Law and Custom."

The two books read by the freshmen this summer, Edmund Cahn's The Moral Decision and C. P. Snow's The Affair, formed the basis for a panel discussion moderated by Dean of the College, Thomas Reynolds.

Freshmen interviewed by THE CAMPUS spoke highly of the evening. Cindy Krieble '68, liked the program because it gave her an opportunity to see the professors. "Besides," she added, "it was the only intellectual exercise. The rest of the activities were social."

Bread Loaf campus played host to the new class Saturday. Although "The Outlaws" and "Dissipated Eight" provided most of the evening entertainment, the freshmen provided some of their own rock 'n' roll and folk singers. The party ended with square dancing. "Part of the fun," said one freshman girl, "was that none of us knew how to square dance."

In Mead Chapel Sunday morning John E. Sawyer, president of Williams College, spoke of the importance of a liberal arts education at the annual Freshman Convocation.

The Players entertained the freshmen on the last night of their week with the one-act play The Lesson. Afterwards the new class was invited to browse through the theatre.

Chickie Sibley '68 commented on her first five days of college life, "Because of the friendliness of the upperclassmen, I don't feel like a lowly freshman at all, but merely like a new student."

6 Grads Included In a Who's Who

Six Middlebury graduates have been selected for inclusion in the 1956 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

They are Gerard R. Cugini '55, prize-winning Boston architect; Alan M. Gussow '52, chairman of the department of editorial and fashion illustration, Parsons School of Design; Ernest Lorch '54, a reporter with the Washington Bureau of the AP; Thomas C. Roberts '56, assistant vice president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. of Worcester, Mass.; and Dr. G. Dann Sargent '57, instructor in chemistry at Princeton.

THE CAMPUS needs additional photographers for its staff. Interested students should visit THE CAMPUS office any Sunday evening after 7 p. m.

CAMPUS Wins Ist Class Rating

THE CAMPUS has been awarded a "First Class Honor" rating from the Associated Collegiate Press critical survey for the second semester of the 1963-64 school year.

The paper scored 65 points higher than the previous rating received by the newspaper for the first semester of the same year. The Press uses four scoring ranges: All-American, First Class, Second Class and Third Class.

Competing newspapers are evaluated according to coverage, content, page make-up, headlines, photography and typography.
